SUPPLEMENT TO
HISTORY OF BOTTISHAM.

NOTES AND ADDITIONS.

P. 5, line 22. Add, In 1871, 1653, giving Bottisham 808 and Bottisham Lode 845.

P. 6, line 25. For vert. And, read vert, and

P. 6. Add, Rights of fairs and markets were granted by charter of Henry III. to Richard de Clare. In 16 Ed. III. the tolls were let for Easter and Michaelmas Term at 3s. See Minister's Accounts, Honor of Clare, and Remembrance of muniments of Philippa, wife of Edmond Mortimer, Add. MSS. 6041, fol. 92 b.

P. 10. Add, The Enclosure Act is 41 Geo. III. cap. 127: the Drainage Act 59 Geo. III. cap. 78.

P. 11, line 16. Note. In 1865 the deanery of Camps was divided into North and South Camps. Bottisham belongs to the former division, and the parishes in this deanery are transferred to the jurisdiction of the archdeaconry of Ely.

P. 13, line 4. Crucified. Add, Or according to another and more probable theory the centre line of the chancel was made to point towards the part of the horizon where the sun rose on the feast of dedication.

P. 20, line 14. I find that I have fallen here into error. There were no chauntries founded in Bottisham church, but at the end of the north and south aisles there were probably altars. The chapel "newly built," referred to in the Patent Rolls, was the free chapel standing within the memory of the last generation near old Bottisham Hall, described on p. 88. By a deed of Wm. Alington, dated from his manor of Bottisham, March 26, 1477, he, the said Wm. Alington, mentions that the prior and convent of Anglesey were exonerated from finding two secular chaplains for Elizabeth de Burgh so long as they celebrated, one at the altar of the Holy Cross in the church of Anglesey, and the other at the chapel in Botsham, every day for the king and queen and Wm. Alington and Joane his wife. Now he releases them of this obligation and binds them both to celebrate at Anglesey. Then follows the agreement of John Prior of Anglesey, stating that the two canons should be exonerated of all other employ except masses, and were to receive weekly fourteen-pence between them besides what they received as canons. Dated Anglesey, March 28. The ratification of the Bishop follows with no date attached.

P. 28, line 17. These arches and the intervening spaces were partially repaired in 1877.

P. 30, line 32. Subjoined is a correct version of this inventory. The words in italics are in a later handwriting. "Ecclesia de Boteskesham appropriata Priori de Anglesey et habet vicarium et taxatur ad xxx marcas et solvit pro synodo ijs. et iiij*l.*, procur' xvij*l.*, pro den. P. 34, line 21. Foss, Judges of England, gives the dates of his appointments thus:—1274, Just. it. appointment probably cancelled; 1275, Serjeant; 1276, Justice of assize, keeper of records and writs of common pleas; 1285, Judge of common pleas; 1305, retired or died.

P. 35, line 8. Read, that it was indebted to him for a silken cloth.

P. 43, line 1. For Swaffham Bulbeck, read Swaffham Prior.

P. 43. Add, On the north wall of the chancel is a brass plate affixed, notifying that the stained-glass window at the east end and the reredos beneath it were erected in memory of Col. Soame Gambier Jenyns, who died Nov. 26, 1873. The stained-glass window is by Clayton and Bell, and the handsome reredos built of clunch and purbeck marble, as well as the early English window above it, are from the designs of Mr Arthur W. Blomfield, the architect. For a further account of Col. Jenyns, see note to page 127.

P. 48, line 2. It is not unfitting here to record the death of a veteran soldier. June 17, 1874, died James Pamplin, at the ripe old age of 97. At the early age of 18 he enlisted into the 30th foot. He went through the Peninsular War, and was present at the battles of Salamanca, Badajoz, and Fuentes D'Onor, for which he received in 1848 from Her Majesty a medal with three clasps. He was also present at the battle of Waterloo, but his regiment was not engaged. In 1817 he received his discharge, and was then granted a pension of 6*d.* a day. This was subsequently increased to 1*s.* 6*d.* a day, but in the same year he died, having full possession of his faculties almost to the last.

The following is all that is to be discovered of obit lands in Bottisham. Patent Rolls, 3 Ed. VI. p. 9, to Richard Venables and John Maynerde, grant of 3 roods of arable land in the tenure of Thomas Thomson, given for obits, guilds, or lamps; also, Patent Rolls 4 Ed. VI. p. 4, to Wm. Morice, of Chipping Ongar, and Edw. Isaac, of Well, Kent, one cottage or tenement in Bottisham, now or late in the tenure of the guardians of the church, given for anniversaries, valued at 3s. 4d. at 10 years' purchase, equal to 33s. 4d. Cf. also Pat. 14 Eliz. p. 2, Mar. 8, grant to Richard Hill and Wm. James, 15 acres 1 rood in the tenure of Matthew Challice, late of the priory of Anglesey, also 2 crofts of arable land containing 1 acre and a-half in the parish in the tenure of Matthew Challice, given for the maintenance of a priest to celebrate mass.

The following is all that is known of guilds in Bottisham. In 12 Ric. II. a return of all guilds was ordered to be sent to the Treasury, with particulars of their statutes and goods: a short extract is annexed relating to Bottisham.

I. Guild of the Holy Trinity. Certificate of Walter Rous, Warden. This guild was founded before the memory of man for the purpose of finding wax at the image of the Holy Trinity in the parish church on feast days, the repair of the building and renewal of vestments, books and ornaments, and for the relief of the poor while resting under ecclesiastical censure. The statutes enjoin the brethren to meet and hear mass on the eve and feast-day of the Holy Trinity. The warden is bound at these services to offer one penny out of his private means, while each brother and sister offers one halfpenny or one farthing. After service a dinner is to be held. When one of the members of the guild dies a mass is to be celebrated, and each member is to give to the poor one halfpenny. The warden shall hold office at the pleasure of the guild. On entry into the fraternity each member shall give 4 bushels of barley or $2\frac{1}{2}$ lbs. of wax. The members shall not be bound by oath to observe the statutes. There is no property belonging to the guild save 22s. in the hands of Wm. Sitoler and John Coupere of Bottisham, brethren of the said guild, which money is to be expended on the light, &c.; for all the money went last year to provide new vestments and ornaments, the old ones having been stolen.

II. Guild of the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Certificate of the same Walter Rous, Warden. This guild was founded and constituted as the guild of the Holy Trinity. For the same cause there are no possessions, but there are chattels of value of 64s. $10\frac{1}{2}d.$ in the hands of Walter Rous, Robert Aleyn, Reginald Leverington, John Hervy, senr., John Katisson, and Thomas Gerard.

III. Guild of Corpus Christi. Thomas Mittylyweye, Warden. Chattels of the value of 30s. in the hands of Thomas Mittylyweye and John Norman, and no more for the above cause. The guild was to find 13 wax lights, each of $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of wax, on the eve and feast of Corpus Christi, and at the obsequies of a brother or sister.

IV. Guild of All Saints. Wm. Osbern, Warden. Founded and constituted as the guild of the Holy Trinity. Chattels, 35s. $10d.$ in the hands of Wm. Osbern, John Jemes, John Hert, John Persan, junr., Wm. Kugrale, Wm. Butt, John Noble, and John Scut, and no more for the above cause.

V. Guild of St Nicholas. Robt. Passelewe, Warden. Founded and constituted as the guild of the Holy Trinity. Chattels, 57s. $4d.$ in the hands of Robert Passelewe, Wm. Sitoler, Wm. Melman, and John Pope, and no more for the above cause. The guild was to find 13 wax lights, of $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of wax, on the eve and feast of St Nicholas, before the altar of St Nicholas in the church aforesaid, and at the obsequies of a brother or sister.

VI. Guild of St Peter. Wm. Sitoler, Warden. Founded and constituted as the guild of the Holy Trinity. Chattels, 20s. 8*d.* in the hands of Wm. Syteler, John Drawswerd, senr., Peter Bere, Wm. Milleweye, Wm. Martyn, and Wm. Bunte, and no more for the above cause.

VII. Guild of St James. John Christmasse, Warden. Founded and constituted as the guild of the Holy Trinity. Chattels, 10s. in the hands of John Christmasse, John Bowyer, and John Skeuale, and no more for the above cause. Vide Chancery Miscellaneous Records, Tower, No. 309, File 8, No. 81.

The records of guilds for the whole county of Cambridge are not entire, but of those that remain we observe that more guilds are mentioned in Bottisham than any other place except the towns of Cambridge and Ely. The only altar mentioned here besides that of Holy Trinity, which was presumably the High Altar, is that dedicated to St Nicholas. Had a great robbery taken place just before this, or did the parishioners with cunning forethought put away their vestments and ornaments into safe keeping and buy fresh ones in order to keep the money in their hands?

P. 55, line 24. Since the above was written a School-board was formed for Bottisham and its hamlets. The members were Rev. J. B. MacClellan, chairman; Rev. J. A. Bonser, Messrs E. Newman, J. B. Paul and E. Smith; Mr T. Ennion, returning officer; F. Grain, Esq. solicitor, clerk; Messrs John Mortlock and Co. bankers, treasurers. In May, 1875, the Board consisted of Messrs J. B. Paul, E. Smith, Sam. Fyson, and Revs. J. A. Bonser and J. B. MacClellan; F. Grain, Esq. resigned, and E. Foster, Esq. became clerk. Subsequently the Revs. J. A. Bonser and J. B. MacClellan resigned, and Messrs John Dennis Paul and Ed. Newman were elected.

P. 55, line 36. Note. In the year 1819 a chapel was built, of which the Rev. Richard Kent was pastor. Previous to this services were held in a private house belonging to Mr Thomas Dennis, now the residence of Mr J. B. Paul. In May, 1850, the Rev. R. Kent died, and the Rev. Thomas Woods succeeded to his office. In 1862 Mr Wisbey became the minister, and during his pastorate, in 1868, the new chapel was erected. In January, 1869, Mr Wisbey resigned, and in September the Rev. E. H. Simpson was appointed. He resigned in January, 1871, and was followed by the Rev. Alfred Richardson, who died in July, 1873. In April, 1874, the present pastor, the Rev. J. D. Thane, succeeded him.

P. 57, line 9. Citchinman or Kitchinman. In 1656 appointed commissioner of Parliament for the town of Cambridge (Robert Hamond was appointed for the county) for an assessment upon England at the rate of £60,000 by the month for 3 months. Vide Scobell, Acts and Ordinances, p. 402.

P. 59, line 2. These stables have since been pulled down.

Of Antiquities found at Bottisham we may notice, in the possession of the Cambridge Ant. Soc., a Roman tile from Bottisham, and a palstave. At the meeting of the same society, Feb. 23, 1874, Mr Deck presented and exhibited a bronze looped socket celt, ornamented with parallel longitudinal lines, found at Bottisham Lode, Dec. 1873.

P. 59, line 13. In 1876 H. Wilkinson, Esq. of Upper Hare Park, commenced opening some of these barrows. 1. Situated in a field not far from his gate, overlooking Bottisham: result, many calcined bones and flints, among which a borer and various urns, including both a monota and a diota. 2. That on the extreme top of Allington hill: result, 2 graves about 3' 6" or 4' x 3', in one of which was a fine gold fibula of circular form and richly ornamented: at equal distances near the circumference were four knobs of a white composite material set with garnets. A tumulus lower down, close to Six Mile Bottom and Westley Green driveway, had been opened previously by the late Prof. Henslow. There remain some others lying in a line drawn from S.E. to N.W.

P. 61, line 1. Note. For a full account of the inquiry into the Bottisham charities held in the national school by the Charity Commissioners, see Camb. Chron. June 4, 1870. From this account we are enabled to complete the history of these charities.

I. Pledger's charity. Thos. Pledger by will gave £40 to be bestowed in freehold lands, the rent to be bestowed upon eight poor people and ancient inhabitants. By indenture dated June 26, 1738, the vicar, churchwardens and overseers demised 11 acres of arable land in Bottisham, vested in them and their successors, at the rent of £6. 10s. Under the inclosure, 21 a. 2 r. 19 p. were allotted in lieu of freehold lands and right of common. This land was free from tithe, land, and drainage taxes, and was let in equal moieties to John King and Mary Poulter as yearly tenants at the rent of £12. 12s. for the whole. Subsequently this charity was administered with Craister's, and applied to four poor people, or pensioners, who received £1. 5s. quarterly.

II. Bream's charity. In 1837 the parish, instead of sending three poor men to reside in these almshouses, received £2 by way of rent for their dwellings and £24 for their stipends. In 1870 £52. 4s. was received annually from East Ham by the trustees.

III. Salisbury's charity. On the inclosure two allotments, containing respectively 2 a. 0 r. 24 p., 4a. 0 r. 15 p., were made in lieu of freehold lands and common rights. In 1870 this charity produced £11, and after various deductions £4. 18s. 9d. was given to each of their national schools at Bottisham and Bottisham Lode.

IV. Town close. In 1857 the following report was made: "A small piece of pasture land, containing 3 r. 30 p. situate near the Swan Inn, in this parish, is let to the trustees of the late Mr John King for £2. 7s. per annum. The rent has from time immemorial been carried into the poor's rates; there are no documents nor any tradition relating to its origin. It is about to be sold under the Poor Law Amendment Act." In 1870 it was stated that the close was sold under the sanction of the Poor Law Board for the purpose of supplying the requisite funds, due from the parish towards the building of the Union workhouse. The charity therefore ceased to exist. May this have been Childe's benefaction mentioned in the register?

V. Clench's charity. The report of 1857 mentions that Mary Clench by will dated Sept. 29, 1711, devised a messuage in Little Wilbraham, and 11 acres of pasture and half an acre of land thereto adjoining, to her husband, John Clench, and his heirs upon trust to pay the sum of £5 yearly to the churchwardens and overseers of Bottisham for apprenticing poor children.

VI. Jenyns's free school. The indenture providing for this charity bears date May 1, 1730.

VII. Shepherd's charity. The deed of indenture is dated Feb. 22, 1739.

VIII. Craister's gift. According to the report of 1837, by indentures of lease and release, the release being dated Jan. 12, 1744, Wm. Ames, in consideration of £17. 10s., being part of the legacy given by the will of the Rev. John Craister, conveyed to seven trustees and their heirs a messuage or tenement then divided into two in Lode Street, Bottisham, upon trust, &c. &c. to place therein such poor persons as they and the survivor or his heirs should appoint. The will of Dr Craister is at Somerset House. This charity was afterwards given away with Pledger's.

IX. Mott's charity. The indenture is dated Oct. 1, 1762.

X. Mrs Jenyns' charity. Her will was dated Jan. 18, 1794, and a codicil Feb. 10, 1796.

XI. Pugh's charity. The will is dated Mar. 8, 1825, and the charity is supposed to comprise all receipts from the living during his incumbency.

XII. Poor's fen. The history of this charity dates from the Charity Commissioners' report of 1837. It is there stated as follows :

On the inclosure, 217 a. 2r. 3p. of fen land were allotted to the poor of Bottisham. They are divided on the map into four parcels, containing respectively 96 a. 3 r. 37 p.; 43 a. 1 r. 55 p.; 69 a. 1 r. 3 p.; 7 a. 3 r. 8 p.

The two last parcels are now thrown together, and consist of three pieces, called the White Fen, Fen Head, and North White Fen.

The poor of the adjoining parish of Stow-cum-Quy claim a right of intercommoning in the second and third, and contribute one-half towards the Eau brink drainage tax. The poor of Fen Ditton and Horningsea claim a right of common in the fourth, but the latter alone contributes to the Eau brink tax, which amounts to about 9*d.* per acre on the whole. An allotment has been made to the Commissioners in lieu of the tax called the drainage tax.

The fen is enjoyed by all the settled poor, who dig turf and cut stover, under the control of the reeves, appointed by the parish. The whole would average about 10*s.* an acre to let. In 1819 a schedule was delivered to Henry King, then overseer and churchwarden, stating the amount of the arrear of taxes on the whole, and that unless they were paid in a limited time the commissioners of drainage would proceed to a sale of the land. The inhabitants at large were not apprised of the notice, and the property was put up to auction, when Mr King himself was declared the purchaser, at the price of £72 for the whole, and a conveyance was executed to him by three several sets of indentures of lease and release for the three pieces. The releases were all dated 19 Nov. 1819, but no trusts whatsoever were declared in them.

Mr King having subsequently warned off several of the parishioners, legal proceedings against him were threatened by the parish, when he stated that he would give up his bargain on being reimbursed the payments he had made to Mr Lemon, agent to the commissioners of drainage, amounting altogether to £183. 4*s.*

On inquiry it appeared that the amount of taxes due, for which the sale was made, was only £58. 12*s.* 1*d.* and consequently that the charges for raising that sum were £128. 11*s.* 11*d.* Mr Lemon's bill amounted to no less than £113. 6*s.* 5*d.* The matter was referred to arbitration, and by the award it was determined, that £148. 5*s.* 6*d.* only should be paid by the inhabitants of the parish to Mr King, out of which were to be deducted the sums of money received by him on account of the land, and that £34. 18*s.* 6*d.* should be refunded by Mr Lemon to Mr King, who should declare himself a trustee of the premises, and deliver up the title deeds to the churchwardens and overseers and another. By indenture, dated Nov. 2, 1833, between Henry King of the one part, the churchwardens and overseers of the several parishes of Bottisham, Quy, and Horningsea of the other part, reciting the proceedings before mentioned, and the payment by Wm. Lemon of £34. 18*s.* 6*d.*, and by the parties of the second part of £148. 5*s.* 6*d.*, the said Henry King declared that he and his heirs, and every person claiming any estate in the premises through or under him, should convey them, with their appurtenances, on request, to the use of, or in trust for the parties of the second part, in trust for the inhabitants of the said parishes respectively, in such shares and proportions as they had theretofore held, used, or enjoyed the same : and that, until such request or conveyance made, he would hold them upon the same trusts.

The Eau brink drainage tax, which now amounts to £8. 14*s.* per annum, is paid by subscription.

During the enquiry in 1870 it was stated that there was no deed forthcoming, but in 1834 the churchwardens and overseers exercised the right of ownership over the commons and also once since, viz. in 1864. Books were then produced from the police station by Inspector Greig, shewing that in that year certain parties were summoned for taking coprolites, and were each convicted and fined. Fen reeves were appointed, but what their duties were seemed not very clear, except to repair certain fen roads.

Since 1864 several attempts were made by the Vicar (Rev. J. B. MacClellan) and others to get a scheme and new trust, but failed, owing to inability to produce the deed or copy of deed of 1833 above referred to, in which Mr King undertook to reconvey the property to the parish officers. In 1876, however, a duly attested copy was found with the churchwardens of Quy, upon which a parish meeting was held at Bottisham, and it was resolved to request Mr H. King to execute the reconveyance. A formal request was then made and the reconveyance executed on Oct. 14, 1876. On the first of Nov. 1876 an application was made to the Charity Commissioners by the Rev. J. B. MacClellan, Edward Newman, John King, junr., Richard Ambrose, and John Bradford Paul, forwarding the above-mentioned document, and asking for a scheme and order. This order was made on Nov. 20, 1877, but it only applies to the property in which Bottisham alone is concerned, viz. one piece of 96 a. 3r. 37 p. and the other of 69 a. 1r. 3 p. By this order the following trustees were appointed:—the vicars of Bottisham and Bottisham Lode, the owner of Bottisham Hall, if resident, official trustees: and the following non-official trustees, viz. Richard Ambrose, farmer, Bottisham; Wm. Cole Ambrose, farmer, Quy; John King, junr., farmer, Bottisham; Wm. King, farmer, Bottisham Lode; Robert Lucas, surgeon, Bottisham; Edward Newman, farmer, Bottisham; Charles Parker, farmer, Bottisham Lode; and John Bradford Paul, farmer, Bottisham. It was further provided that the income of the said charity, after payment thereof of all necessary outgoings, and the cost of fencing, draining, and levelling the ground where requisite, and of a fair share of all necessary repairs of the Fen Road leading to the same, should be applied by the trustees exclusively for the benefit of the poor labouring population of the said parishes of Bottisham and Bottisham Lode, in manner following, that is to say:—In the establishment of coal clubs, or the purchase of coal or other fuel in large quantities, to be retailed at reduced prices to the poor; or in the promotion of the education of children of both sexes, either by the payment of the school fees of poor children, or by the establishment of small scholarships, by which deserving poor children may be enabled to remain longer at school, and thus to fit themselves to better their condition in life; or in payment of the school fees of any blind or deaf and dumb child of deserving poor persons residing in the parish, at any school or schools specially provided for the education of blind or deaf and dumb children, such fees to include the payments ordinarily made for providing food, washing, and lodging, but in no case to exceed for any one child the annual sum of £30, nor to be continued in any single instance for a period exceeding seven years. Since this order was made meetings have been held, the property has been carefully surveyed, the roads staked out, and already various acre pieces are let.

P. 72, l. 7. Note. In May, 1650, Cromwell's survey took place. Among other items occur:—"Quit-rents of Bottisham, £9. 14s. 7½*d.* Common fine due to the Lord from the tenants payable at Easter = per annum, 6s. 8*d.*"

Honor of Richmond. "Mem. there is a court which is in the nature of a court Baron belonging unto the Honor of Clare, and kept yearly each Monday in Easter week according to the custom thereof at Bottisham. There is also a court-leet belonging to the said honor kept at the time and place aforesaid. Mem. that there was antiently a court for Richmond Honor but not lately kept, nor is known where kept, there being only dry rents due unto the said Honor that we can find out." The surveyors were Wm. Webb, Thomas Fowle, John Ward.

P. 116, l. 2. In Lodge, Life of the Caesar family, there is a portrait of Sir Gyles Allington, the husband of Dorothy Cecil, engraved after Cornelius Janssen, dated 1631, half-length. It shews a long face with a little moustache and a pointed beard; over the head is a finely embroidered skull-cap in needlework. The ruff is large and richly worked, and the doublet tight fitting. There is also a portrait from a miniature on copper of Hildebrand, third and last Lord Allington. It is a small half-length shewing a thin but large lace collar, a very narrow face and a stumpy head.

Alice Talkarne. Her brass, dated 1605, is in Stoke-by-Clare church, Suffolk. She was then a widow.

Additions to Allington Pedigree. Richard Allington, who married Jane Cordell, died 1561. There is a mural monument to him, his wife, and three daughters, in the Rolls Chapel, Chancery Lane, London.

P. 118, l. 5. Ralph Jenyns. He was buried at Churchill in Somersetshire. On a blue stone in the floor of (?) the south aisle, was a brass of a man and wife and children with this inscription: "Here lieth Ralphe Jenyns esqr. which died the 20 day of April in the year of our Lord God 1572, and was buried the 27th day of the same month, leaving behind him Joanne his wife and having by her 8 children, that is, to wit, 5 sons and 3 daughters." There were several shields of arms, some of which were defaced. Among those that remained intelligible were: 1, on a chev. 3 lions rampant; 2, Quarterly 1, on a fess 3 bezants; 2, a bull's head erased; 3, 2 bars charged with 3 martlets each; 4, as 1. See Collinson's Somersetshire, III. 581. His father in law, Ralph Rowlett, or Rowlat, was a merchant of the staple of Calais, and was buried in St Alban's abbey, where was a brass in the south chancel aisle to him and his wife Jane, 1519, with 6 daughters; effigy of wife and sons lost, marginal inscription mutilated; figured in Bowtell, Mon. Brasses, p. 110. See Haines, Mon. Br. part II. p. 86. (?) Therefore was Ralph Jenyns a merchant of the staple also. P. 119, l. 20. Frances Jennings. The following description of her personal appearance is given in the memoirs of the Comte de Grammont:—Her skin was of the most pearly whiteness; her hair a most perfect blond; a certain sort of vivacity and animation prevented her from looking dull, the ordinary accompaniment of extreme whiteness; her mouth, though none of the smallest, was yet the prettiest in the world. Nature had endowed her with unutterable charms, the Graces had added a finishing touch; her cast of countenance being gracious, while her nascent neck matched its hue. In a word, her figure gave you the idea of Aurora, or one of the goddesses of Spring, such as the poets themselves present in their most brilliant descriptions. But as it would not be fair for one person to possess all the treasures of beauty without any of the defects, so something seemed wanting to render her hands and arms worthy of the rest of her appearance. Her nose was not so delicate as might be imagined, her eyes were wanting in grace, but her mouth, no less than the rest of her charms, sent a thrill to the bottom of one's heart. See Memoires du Comte de Grammont, par M. le Comte Antoine Hamilton, ed. Horace Walpole, London, 4to. J. Dodsley, 1783, pp. 193, &c.

P. 119, l. 26. Sarah Jennings, the Atossa in Pope's Satire on Women, was born at Burwell in Lincolnshire. Her portrait, a $\frac{3}{4}$ length, by Sir Godfrey Kneller, is in the beauty room at Petworth House, belonging to Lord Leconfield. She has a small head, fair hair and regular features, but is not strikingly handsome. Swift, her bitter enemy, sums up her character thus: "Three furies raged in her breast—the most mortal enemies of all softer passions—which were sordid avarice, disdainful pride, and ungovernable rage."

P. 120, l. 9. Thomas Jenyns. In 1666 Lord Castlemaine bought H. Jenyns' and Tom Jenyns' houses in the Savoy, the latter for £1130. They were, it appears, his nephews. Some of these houses were in the "Dutchy Lane" and one by "Mr Rushworth's." The two Jenyns then became Lord Castlemaine's tenants. Lady Palmer died at Windsor May 31, 1666, and was buried at Hendon June 4. In the executors' account is the following item:—For mourning, Mr Jenyns £10.

On March 26, 1665, an agreement was made between Lord Castlemaine and Roger Jenyns, whereby the latter (in lieu of all pretence to the office in Wales held by him, or by Mr Wilkinson in trust for him) was to have the house which he held in the Savoy rent free for seven years ending Lady Day 1672. Dec. 27, 1666, Roger Jenyns sells his houses to Lord Castlemaine. See Brit. Mus. add. MSS. 12,676.

P. 127, l. 27. George Jenyns. Since the above was written we regret to have to record his death, which took place at Bottisham Hall, Ap. 13, 1878. He was buried at Bottisham Church with his ancestors Ap. 18.

P. 127, l. 33. Soame Jenyns. We also have with regret to record the somewhat sudden death of this distinguished officer, Nov. 26, 1873, at Bowton Lodge in Shropshire, the seat of Lord Wenlock. He had then been but lately promoted to the responsible position of Assistant Adjutant-General at head-quarters. On Dec. 3, 1873, he was buried with full military honours at Bottisham Church. A party of the 13th Hussars, his former regiment, numbering 150 men, under the command of Captain Pole, came down to Cambridge by special train and found their way on to Bottisham Hall. The park being thrown open to the public a large number of persons assembled in front of the Hall to witness the starting of the cortège, which took place at about one o'clock. The firing party being told off, the remainder of the Hussars, except of course the band, formed two lines, one on either side of the carriage drive leading from the Hall to the stately avenue, and through these two lines the procession passed.

First came the firing party, two abreast, followed by the band. After this and immediately preceding the hearse walked the Rev. H. Huleatt, the chaplain of the Forces, who wore three medals. Following the hearse came the late Colonel's horse. Then came four mourning coaches containing the following. In the first were H. Thompson, Esq., of Moorlands, Yorkshire; G. Thompson, Esq., H. Young, Esq., and the Rev. F. G. Jenyns (brother of the deceased). In the second: Col. Tremayne, Major Jervis, and Mr Goad. In the third were Capt. Webb, Capt. Hayne, Mr C. Jenyns, and Mr Smith. In the fourth: Mr C. W. Townley, Mr E. Hicks, Mr C. P. Allix, and Mr C. Francis. The rear was brought up by the officers and men of the 13th Hussars. As soon as the procession started the band struck up the solemn strains of the "Dead march in Saul," continued by the organ on arriving at the church until all the people were seated.

The coffin, placed on a bier in the centre aisle, was covered with a pall, and on it lay three beautiful wreaths of flowers and the deceased's sword and cocked-hat. The Rev. J. B. McClellan, Vicar of Bottisham, read the opening sentences and the 39th Psalm, and the Rev. H. Huleatt read the lesson from 1 Cor. xv.

The coffin was then lowered into the family vault. The last portion of the 142nd hymn, in Hymns Ancient and Modern, was then sung, after which the remainder of the burial service was conducted by the Vicar. This being concluded and the blessing pronounced, at a given signal the firing party outside the church, near the vault, fired three volleys, and the ceremony was ended.

Note. Sir John de Cambridge gave all his property to the guild of Corpus Christi. They then exchanged their principal hostel with Gonville Hall for their site in Lurteburgh lane. Thus Gonville Hall held the site of the principal house of Sir John, opposite to St Michael's hostel, of the Prior and Convent of Anglesey. Richard de Wrattinge, Prior, grants them this for a yearly rental of 3s. which in 37 Hen. VIII. they paid to the king. On June 24, 1337, Walter, Prior of Anglesey, and Convent demised for 40 years to Robert de Mildenhall, the Master, and Scholars of Michael House, a curtilage in the parish of St Michael which lay in length from a messuage of Michael House pertaining to the Rectory of St Michael at the east head unto a messuage formerly of John de Cambridge, knight, at the west, and lay in breadth near the Stonehouse of the said Prior on the south, and near a certain lane, formerly common, on the north.

Henney, called also Henne Abbey, Henabay, or Henably, was granted by the Prior and Convent of Anglesey to the King, 28 Hen. VI. on Friday eve of St Peter and St Paul, who in 33 Hen. VI. granted it to the town to be used as a common way from Milne-street to the water called the Ree. Some of this ground the town granted to Michael House in order to enlarge Garret Hostel. In 1544, the town grant to Trin. Hall the garden called Henably. In 1545, the fellows' garden to the north of Trin. Hall is granted them by the master and fellows of Michael House. With reference to the vacant place in the parish of Saint John (mentioned in p. 228 of this history), in 10 Ed. III. the Prior and Convent of Anglesey gave licence to Joan, widow of John de Cambridge, knight, to grant to the house of St Michael a waste place in the parish of St John, formerly built upon between the messuage of John de Cumberton on the north and the tenement of John de Cambridge on the south, one head abutting on Milne-street on the west, the other on the tenement of John de Cambridge on the east. See Reports of the Town Commissioners of Cambridge. Thos. de Cambridge died in 1361. His widow and executrix, Margaret, was married afterwards to Robert de Bassingbourne. His sister Isabel was a nun at St Rhadegund's, and Joan de Cambridge, who died in 1487, was probably a descendant.
